

The Hottest Restaurants in Atlanta Right Now, December 2015

More often than not, tipsters, readers, friends, and family of Eater have one question: Where should I eat right now? What are the new restaurants? What haven't I heard of? What's everyone talking about? While the Eater 38 is a crucial resource covering old standbys and neighborhood essentials across the city, it is not a chronicle of the "it" places of the moment. Thus, we offer the Eater Heatmap, which will change periodically to highlight where the food-crazed crowds are flocking. Since this is a spotlight on what's happening right now, we must make room for what's fresh. Therefore, in this edition, we remove Gus's World Famous Fried Chicken and Ray's Rio Bravo and we welcome Cape Dutch and Gaja.

2 Cape Dutch

Local restaurateur Justin Anthony is planning a Ponce City Market eatery, but first Cape Dutch is serving in the former Woodfire Grill space. It takes the South African influence Anthony is known for and applies that to a more classic American menu.
